Gheerkin Vanhaverbeke started his law studies at KU Leuven in 2015. Throughout the course, a special interest in public law grew; after the master's programme with specialisation in economic & public law, the choice for the administrative and environmental law department at GSJ lawyers was therefore quickly made.

He mainly focuses on cases in the field of environmental law. He assists public authorities, private individuals as well as private developers and companies with guidance, advice and proceedings before the various administrative authorities and courts.
